

Mississippi University for Women statement on Indirect Costs

Mississippi University for Women does not currently have a federally negotiated indirect cost rate agreement (NICRA) and will typically not include indirect costs (IDC) in sponsored project applications. However, when applicable, proposals should charge the federal de minimis indirect cost rate, or any other rate specified by the solicited sponsor agency as their approved IDC rate for universities without their own NICRA. These rates may be used on applicable projects until the university receives its own federally negotiated indirect cost rate agreement (NICRA).