Council Actions for April 7, 2017

College of Education & Human Sciences

Mark Bean presented the following proposals for H&K:

1. Modify an Existing Course – HED 241 Biostatistics for Public Health
2. Modify an Existing Course – HED 310 Social and Behavioral Aspects of Public Health
3. Modify an Existing Course – HED 314 Principles of Epidemiology
4. Modify an Existing Course – HED 315 Infectious Diseases and Public Health
5. Modify an Existing Course – HED 316 Chronic Disease and Public Health
6. Modify an Existing Course – HED 320 Environmental Public Health
7. Modify an Existing Course – HED 325 Global Health
8. Modify an Existing Course – KIN 408 Biomechanics

These proposals are changing prerequisite and/or co-requisite requirements to control progression through the program. These changes will help students be successful in these courses and better prepared for the required materials in the upper level courses. Amanda Dahl made the motion to approve the proposals as presented with the addition of the CIP code to the HED courses. Shelley Bock seconded the motion and the proposals were approved unanimously.

Katymay Malone presented the following proposal:

9. Offer a New Course – HED 384 Eating Disorders and Body Image as Public Health Issues

H&K piloted this course last summer and was wildly successful. This course was recommended in order to remain relevant to current issues that affect primarily women and to stay in alignment with other public health education programs. Amanda Dahl made the motion to approve the proposal as presented with the addition of the CIP code. Derek Webb seconded the motion and the proposal was approved unanimously.

Mark Bean presented two new proposals:

10. Offer a New Course – HED 406 Research Methods in the Health Sciences
11. Offer a New Course – KIN 406 Research Methods in the Health Sciences
 - a. Crosslist HED/KIN 406

Since the discontinuation of teacher education, the research methods course was being used for exercise science majors too. This course will be tailored specifically to public health and exercise science majors. Other research courses lack the particular focus needed for Health Science majors. This course will be cross listed with KIN 406 and will replace HED 405. Prerequisite courses are HED 240 and HED 241. It will increase the number of required Public Health Education (BAS and BS) course credit hours to 42 from 39.

Shelley Bock made the motion to approve the proposals as presented. Kim Whitehead seconded the motion and the proposals were approved unanimously.

12. Modify an Existing Curriculum – Exercise Science

This proposal will discontinue Chemistry II and add Physics I for exercise science majors. It will also add KIN 406 and remove KIN 405. And will eliminate HED 207 as an option and add KIN 308. Shelley Bock made the motion to approve the proposal as presented. Amanda Dahl seconded the motion and the proposal was approved unanimously.
