Administrative/Biographical History

Jacob Ayers filed a class action lawsuit vs. the governor of Mississippi, the Board of Trustees for Institutions of Higher Learning (IHL), the Commissioner of Higher Education, and others in the five historically white public Mississippi universities in 1975, alleging that the state maintained de facto segregation in its universities by inadequately funding historically black universities, a violation of the Equal Protection clause.

The case, Ayers v. Allain, was decided against the plaintiffs in the US District Court, but overturned on appeal and heard by the US Supreme Court in 1992. The court found that the state had not done enough to disestablish its old segregated university system.

From there the case was remanded to the district court, where the state proposed merging Mississippi University for Women with Mississippi State University, and Mississippi Valley State University with Delta State University, among other changes. In March 1995, presiding judge Neal B. Biggers Jr. of the US District Court for the Northern District of Mississippi rejected the proposed mergers, allowing the two universities to continue operations. An alternative set of remedies was settled upon, and the case was adjourned in 2002.

Scope and Content Note

Collection includes the legal documents required by all universities in Mississippi involved in Ayers case to house in their libraries for public reference, which originally appear to have come from the office of Dr. Rent. Her notes also feature prominently. This series also includes grant information from same period. Three boxes include materials that appear to have been brought into Dr. Rent's office from the offices of Admissions, Academic Affairs, and Financial Affairs.
