Administrative/Biographical Notes: The Peyton Family Papers are comprised of materials centered around Annie Coleman Peyton, her daughter Mary Lou Peyton, and their immediate family.

Annie Coleman Peyton (1852-1898) is one of the "founding mothers" of the Industrial Institute and College along with Olivia Hastings and Sally Reneau. Annie was born in Madison County, Mississippi and graduated from Whitworth College in 1872. She then married Chancellor Ephraim Geoffrey Peyton of Gallatin, Mississippi, moving to Hazelhurst. She began agitating for the founding of a state-supported girls for white girls in 1880 by writing to various newspapers under the pseudonym "A Mississippi Woman." She first attempted to convince the state to purchase Whitworth College, but after that plan failed she coordinated with Olivia Hastings and with the Hon. John McCaleb Martin of Port Gibson to pass a bill in the legislature in 1884 creating the Industrial Institute and College. After the opening of the school, Annie Peyton was hired in 1891 as an instructor in History, which she continued until her death in 1898. After her death, Peyton became the first woman inducted into the Mississippi Hall of Fame, with her portrait hanging in the Old Capitol Museum in Jackson.

Mary Lou Peyton (1881-1959), II&C class of 1916, is the daughter of Annie Coleman Peyton. She was an instructor in History at MSCW from 1938-1945.

Ephraim Geoffrey Peyton, Jr. (d. 1889) was the husband of Annie Coleman Peyton and father of Mary Lou, and son of Mississippi State Supreme Court Chief Justice Ephraim Peyton, Sr. He served as District Attorney and then Chancellor for the 9th Chancery District.

Ephraim Geoffrey Peyton III (1876-1950) was the son of Ephraim Jr. and Annie Coleman Peyton. He was a Brigadier General in the US Army and instructor in tactics at Fort Benning and West Point. He commanded an infantry regiment in World War I.

Paul Jones Peyton (1886-1934) graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1908 and became a naval aviator, flying missions in World War I. He retired from the military in 1925.

John Robert Coleman Peyton (b. 1889), the youngest son of Ephraim Jr. and Annie, served in World War I. According to his own account, in 1929 he fell 3 1/2 stories from a building in New York City and was mentally impaired by the accident.

Artie Katherine Peyton Conner (b. 1878), II&C class of 1904, is the eldest daughter of Ephraim Jr. and Annie Coleman. She married Colonel William Conner, moved to Charlottesville, and became a school teacher.

William Conner, Jr. was the son of William Conner and Artie Peyton.

Ann Peyton was the daughter of Paul Jones Peyton.

Robert Peyton was a son of Ephraim Jr. and Annie Coleman who died at 13.

R. G. Peyton was the uncle of Ephraim Jr.

Annie C. Peyton (d. 1909) was the daughter of Ephraim Jr. and Annie Coleman Peyton.

Scope and Content Notes: The collection appears to have belonged to Mary Lou Peyton, who then donated it to the university. Most of the materials belonged to her.

Records of Ephraim Peyton, Jr. include appointments, awards, licenses, and other official documents with some financial documents, recommendation letters, and copies of obituaries.

Annie Coleman Peyton's series includes correspondence predominately from 1876-1898, clippings of her letters to the editor signed "A Mississippi Woman," and scattered receipts and financial statements.

Mary Lou Peyton's records include correspondence from family and friends, some financial material, and research and class notes for her course in Mississippi History at MSCW.

Ephraim Peyton III's series includes primarily correspondence, of both personal and military nature, from 1890-1945.

Paul Jones Peyton's records comprise personal and military correspondence from 1905-1934 as well as aeronautics bulletins and an undated memoir.

The John R. C. Peyton series includes correspondence from 1904-1956, a memoir, original poetry, and material relating to a life insurance policy taken out on him by Mary Lou.

Artie Peyton Conner's series comprises correspondence from 1894-1949 and some work and financial documents of her husband's.

All other series are comprised of small amounts of correspondence.

System of Arrangement: Collection is divided into series by family member. Each series is then roughly chronologically arranged, but original order from 1980s maintained.
